Union Tool Blasts Friday Explained; It Was Scout Call
Many residents of Torrance have been wondering why the usual whistle of the Union Tool was sounded differently last Friday evening, one long, one short and one long blast being substituted for the usual long blast. The explanation is that this was a demonstration of the Boy Scout call, an emergency method of summoning the scouts of Torrance in the event of a sudden and unexpected need for services, when in a local emergency their services might be of value to the community. The motto of the scout organization is "Be Prepared," and this plan, arranged through the kindly co-operation of the Union Tool Company, is only another step in the plans to make available in every possible way, the boy power of the organization for the service of Torrance. In the near future it is hoped to conduct a definite tryout of the plan for practical purposes, and in the event of a real need, Mr. F. L. Parks Scout Commissioner for Torrance, will arrange for the sounding of the call and for the direction of the scouts answering in any way in which their services may be of value.

LEGION NOTES
Enter the Insegrators. Yeah, that's the name. The answer to the riddle is Inglewood, El Segundo, Redondo and Torrance Legion posts. They christened their new inter-post organization Monday night with a rollicking smoker—first of a series—at Redondo. There were 250 veterans present. Thirty of them were from Torrance. The next gathering of the Insegrators will be at El Segundo on Feb. 24. The Bert S. Crossland post has a committee of 30—everyone who went to Redondo—as a group to tell all Legionnaires they had better attend if they want a real party.

Second class badges were presented to Richard Burr and Elwin Wood, Troop 1; and first class badges to William Barnes, Troop 3, and Harry Ainsworth, Douglas Brumpton and William Loftus of Troop 4. Four merit badges were presented, including Star badges to Kenneth Clutter and Charles Kissinger. S. T. I. C. badges were presented to Jack Ross, James Shearer, Clyde Boddy, James Baguly and Kenneth Clutter, by virtue of which they are entitled to pass second and first class tests.
Mr. F. L. Parks was introduced as the newly appointed District Scout Commissioner for Torrance, a recognition of the service he has rendered for Scouting in Torrance including the obtaining of the Scout building that has been of such definite value to the movement in its activities.
An interesting contest was conducted to determine the best dressed scout present, and the judge awarded a book as the prize to James Shearer, Troop 1, with George Lancauer, Troop 3, and Charles Kissinger, Troop 4, as close seconds.
At the conclusion of the regular program an hour of entertainment in magic was staged by L. O. Gunn, and those present were mystified by a number of unusually clever tricks.

Small cakes and cookies are always a welcome addition to any luncheon or dinner, as well as for tea.
Raisin Macaroons—Take two cupfuls of toasted corn flakes, one cupful of sugar, two egg whites, one cupful of seedless raisins and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat the egg whites until stiff, add the sugar gradually and then fold in the cornflakes and raisins. Add flavoring and drop by spoonfuls on a buttered baking sheet. This recipe makes about two dozen macaroons.
Apricot and Banana Dessert—Wash and cook one-fourth pound of dried apricots. While still hot, sweeten to taste and put through a sieve. When cold, add thinly sliced bananas. Mix lightly and serve with cream. Cookies or cake may accompany this dessert.
Cold sliced calves' hearts are delicious with:
Espagnole Sauce—Take chopped calves' feet and veal bones crushed with raw ham trimmings, chopped carrots, leeks, onions, celery, parsley roots and a little thyme, with salt and pepper to season. Practice and taste will tell you how to combine the amounts. Add a few cloves, a bay leaf and put all into a roasting pan, spread with sweet fat and roast until a golden brown; stir so that the whole is browned evenly. Remove the mixture to a kettle, add soup stock to fill the kettle, a can of tomatoes and simmer for six hours. Strain and reduce by simmering another three hours. Clear by skimming, strain and put away on ice.
Pineapple Salad—Arrange slices of pineapple on curly leaves of head lettuce. Take cream cheese, adding a little cream to soften, put through a ricer, top each slice of pineapple with a spoonful of the cheese and place a maraschino cherry on top of each. Serve with a French dressing.
Save all canned fruit juices for cold drinks or pudding sauces and all strups from spiced fruit for the mince meat when making mince pies.
